

How This Toyota Plant Recycles Millions of Gallons of Water Every Year

April 22, 2020

Image not found or type unknown

Water conservation is one of Toyota's key environmental focus areas, which is why Toyota facilities in "high" water risk areas are developing creative methods of recycling water and mitigating waste.

For example, Toyota Motor Manufacturing Baja California (TMMBC), in Mexico has created a unique water recycling system that saves 23 million gallons of water per year.

Learn more about TMMBC's conservation efforts in a "high" water risk area.